

Forks man launches election bid

Republican David Billings announced his intention Sunday to run for Forks Township supervisor. Billings, 48, is a co-officer of the Easton Area High School Swimming and Diving Booster Club. He was appointed to the Easton Area School District Local Tax Commission, which made a recommendation to the school board on the implementation of the Pennsylvania 2006 Taxpayer Relief Act.

A township resident for more than six years, Billings said he is interested in creating further recreational activities for children and senior citizens and improving the quality of life for Forks Township residents.

Billings lives with his wife Jan and their three children. Billings is a graduate of Virginia Wesleyan College and received his MBA at Moravian College. He also served in the United States Navy and currently works at AT&T.

Supervisors David Hoff and John Ackerman's seats will be open in the May primary.
